

Community-Based Engagement:

Working With Diverse Families and Students With Disabilities in Urban Settings

Hispanos Unidos para Niños Excepcionales (HUNE) Mission

HUNE empowers and supports parents of children and youth with exceptionalities in obtaining a quality public education, so that the students will lead rich, active lives and attain future success.

One of HUNE's core objectives is to support youth in the process of meeting their full potential, while building networks with families, school, and community.

Collaboration between families, school, and community is developed and fostered using the following strategies:

- Monthly family meetings
 - Provide updated youth information to caregivers
 - Offer parenting workshops to foster positive relationships between families and their children
 - Build family relationships through youth-centered activities in which families can participate
 - Invite professionals to share information on topics suggested by families
- Youth engagement in the community
 - Volunteer in community agencies, schools, and businesses that match students' interests

- Participate in student apprenticeship programs
- Mentor in daycare centers, preschool programs, neighborhood elementary schools (primary grades)
- Maintain a partnership with Office of Vocational Rehabilitation Services (OVR)
- Participate in travel training
- Participate in community events, such as Neighborhood Clean-up and Recycling Day and El Día de los Niños
- Collaboration between school and youth program
 - Work with schools on academic issues (e.g., extra homework help, problem-solving strategies, and behavior management)
 - Partner with the schools on a variety of individualized emerging situations
 - Attend school meetings, such as interagency meetings and Individualized Education Program meetings
 - Share updated information about the academic and behavioral performance of students participating in HUNE Youth Programs
 - Build positive relationships with teachers, counselors, and other stakeholders, who are working with HUNE Youth Program students

High school graduates are positive role models! Whether someone wants to be a positive role model for society in general, or a role model to his or her younger siblings and younger cousins or a child, obtaining a high school diploma is an honored achievement!
